Nestled in a quiet pocket, at the midpoint between Main North Road and Hampstead Road, this property enjoys strong north-eastern connectivity into Adelaide's inner ring. This part of Enfield relishes the benefits of urban renewal projects and the increase in sub-division approvals with new homes being built. If history and data correlations show anything, it's that the momentum of development and new homes in the area continues exponentially.

In other words, you're investing not just in bricks and mortar — but in a neighbourhood where public resources are being utilized, encouraging new-supply activity and providing the foundation for future investment opportunities and new homes.

Close proximity to shopping, public transport, schools and services. Contained within the City of Port Adelaide Enfield council area means with access to the known local amenities.
